Caught after Nine Years' Absence-

Doyton Advertiser.1 In 1867, we think it was, R. S. Clark, commonly known as "Sim. Clark," a young man of Attala county, shot and killed another young man of the same county, named Wm. Foy, at the town of Goodman, in Helmes county, Clark made his e-cape at the time, and remained away until last Saturday, when he was brought here and delivered to the Sheriff by C. A. Boyd, marshal of the town of Goodman,

It appears that Foy's friends, upon hearing that the fugitive was at McKinney, in the State of Texas, procured a requisition from Governor Stone upon the Governor of Texas, and that under such requisition Israel Pickins, a Texas sheriff, and another man, a brother of the deesased Foy, brought Clark from Texasto. Goodman, where they stopped and rested while Boyd brought their prisoner here, as before stated. The Grand Jury found a true bill for murder soon after the transaction took place, and the case has been passed from court to court, hecause of the absence of the defendant.
